Sorry dudes, I can't be there on the 6th.

But if everything hits the fan and you buds need a second wave of support, I can come on that Saturday with supplies.

What should I bring (if able to get through the blockades, if there are any)?

Water bottles, canned food, fire wood, blankets, guillotine sharpeners, fresh rope?

No guarantees, as I've never traveled more than 50 miles out of my town by car all alone :P

I'm a sheltered millennial that hasn't traveled at all who still lives at home with his parents, has an ailing family I support that would be devastated financially and emotionally if anything were to happen to me, I have H1N1 vaccine induced narcolepsy with mild cataplexy (nostalgic feelings makes my legs buckle and I faceplant, fun), and I've only shot a gun once in my lifetime.

True, I also have work, no time off left, and if they find out I took off to be in DC on the 6th they might lay me off again and I can't pay for my $10,000 a month narcolepsy medicine since my insurance goes bye bye.

That I'm offering to come on that Saturday to drop off supplies is the best I can do, and I'm damn serious about that, so don't give me any grief when others who are more fortunate than I are planning to skimp off completely.

Ahh I have mixed emotions, fuck anyone not there, but you have a half ass excuse, except you are really just not wanting to miss work.

No can do, if something goes down I don't plan on being stranded in the middle of DC, a place I've never been to, at the apex of a Civil War and no car of my own.

How about this:

If you can manage it I can meet you at a Menards or other similar store in KY and I'll be willing to pay for water, blankets, flash lights or what-have-you and help you load it up. Seeing how you'll be headed there anyway, I'd be more than happy to.

You think you could do that?

I will have a bus load of people..I bet that would help honestly. But there have been so many post about people not going I probably came at you to hard. Especially after the pede said he's putting cancer treatments on hold to go.

Looking at the major highways, you'd have to go about 2 hours out of your way to get to me.

I can meet half way, in like Bowling Green, KY but I'm gonna steer clear of Nashville for obvious reasons.

If you can swing by on your way there, give me a time and a place to pick up supplies and I'd be willing to lend a hand. I got a bonus check from work this year and I honestly don't need it seeing how the rest of my family decided not to do Christmas gifts this time around.

I don't want any part-crashing ANTIFA to show up, so don't give me details here. If you have an alternate place to talk I'd be happy to do coordinate further.

Shit man.... I just had my spine fused together. Probably from being a Paratrooper for more than half my career. And a few drunken moments.
